Long, long ago there was a man who had a very bad temper. He would shout and yell at everyone he met, and he was always angry. One day, he was walking through a forest when he saw a small stream flowing downhill. He stopped to look at it and noticed that the water was very clear and still. He decided to take a dip in the stream.
As he was swimming, he heard a voice calling him from the bank.
He turned around and saw a small, white rabbit standing on the bank.
The rabbit said to him, "Please, stop shouting and yelling.
It's bad for your health and it's bad for other people.
Instead, try to be kind and gentle. You'll be much happier if you do." The man was surprised by what the rabbit had said, and he realized that he had been shouting and yelling too much. From that day on, he tried to be more gentle and kind.
He still had his bad temper sometimes, but he was able to control it better. And he found that being kind and gentle was much more enjoyable than shouting and yelling.
