

Handwritten text in an ancient script, likely Burmese, on a palm leaf manuscript. The text is arranged in approximately three horizontal lines. A white rectangular label is placed over the middle section of the leaf, partially obscuring the characters. The leaf shows signs of age and wear, with some fraying at the edges.

Handwritten text in an ancient script, likely Burmese, on a palm leaf. The text is arranged in a single line across the length of the leaf. The script is finely etched and appears to be a form of Pagan or early Burmese script.

SALE
PBRU

Handwritten text in an ancient script, likely Burmese, on a palm leaf. This leaf contains two lines of text. The script is consistent with the one on the top leaf, showing a continuous or related text.

Handwritten text in an ancient script, likely cuneiform, on a long, narrow strip of material. The text is arranged in several lines and is somewhat faded and difficult to read. A small circular hole is visible on the left side of the strip.

Handwritten text in an ancient script, likely cuneiform, on a long, narrow strip of material. The text is arranged in several lines and is somewhat faded and difficult to read. A small circular hole is visible on the left side of the strip.

Handwritten text in an ancient script, likely Pāli, on a palm leaf. The text is arranged in approximately four horizontal lines. The script is finely etched into the surface of the leaf, which shows signs of age and wear.

Handwritten text in an ancient script, likely Pāli, on a palm leaf. This section contains approximately three lines of text, continuing the script from the upper leaf. The leaf is dark and shows some staining and wear.

Handwritten text in an ancient script, likely Pictish or Gaelic, inscribed on a long, narrow stone fragment. The text is arranged in a single line across the length of the fragment.

Handwritten text in an ancient script, likely Pictish or Gaelic, inscribed on a long, narrow stone fragment. The text is arranged in a single line across the length of the fragment.

Handwritten text in an ancient script, likely Pāli, on a palm leaf. The text is arranged in approximately 10 horizontal lines across the length of the leaf. The script is finely etched into the surface of the dried leaf.

၇၆

Handwritten text in an ancient script, likely Pāli, on a palm leaf. The text is arranged in approximately 10 horizontal lines across the length of the leaf. The script is finely etched into the surface of the dried leaf.

Faint, illegible text on a dark, possibly damaged, strip of material, likely a fragment of a manuscript or document.

Handwritten text in a script, possibly Burmese, on a light-colored strip of material. The text is arranged in several lines and appears to be a fragment of a larger document. The script is dense and difficult to decipher due to the image quality and the angle of the strip.

Handwritten Burmese script on a palm leaf manuscript strip. The text is arranged in approximately three horizontal lines, starting from the left side of the strip. The characters are finely etched into the surface of the dried leaf.

၈၅

Handwritten Burmese script on a palm leaf manuscript strip. The text is arranged in approximately three horizontal lines, starting from the left side of the strip. The characters are finely etched into the surface of the dried leaf.

Handwritten text in an ancient script, likely Pāli, on a palm leaf. The text is arranged in a single line across the length of the leaf. The script is finely etched and appears to be a form of Theravāda Buddhist sutta or commentary.

Handwritten text in an ancient script, likely Pāli, on a palm leaf. This leaf also contains a single line of text, similar in style and content to the one above. The script is consistent with the one on the upper leaf, suggesting they are part of the same manuscript.

Handwritten Burmese script on a palm leaf, likely a historical record or legal document. The text is densely packed and follows the natural curve of the leaf. It appears to be a formal record, possibly detailing land transactions or administrative matters, given the structured nature of the entries.

Handwritten Burmese script on a second palm leaf, continuing the text from the first. The script is consistent in style and content, suggesting a single document split across multiple leaves. The text is clearly legible and organized into distinct lines.

Handwritten text in an ancient script, likely Burmese, on a palm leaf. The text is arranged in a single line across the length of the leaf, with some characters appearing to be in a different script or dialect than the main body of text.

Handwritten text in an ancient script, likely Burmese, on a palm leaf. The text is arranged in a single line across the length of the leaf, with some characters appearing to be in a different script or dialect than the main body of text.

Handwritten text in Khmer script on a palm leaf, consisting of approximately three lines of text.

Handwritten text in Khmer script on a palm leaf, consisting of approximately three lines of text.

Handwritten Burmese script on a palm leaf manuscript strip. The text is arranged in approximately three horizontal lines, written from left to right. The script is a traditional form of Burmese, likely used for religious or historical records. The leaf shows signs of age and wear, with some discoloration and a small hole on the left side.

A second, mostly blank palm leaf manuscript strip, positioned below the first. It has a small hole on the left side and shows some faint, illegible markings, possibly bleed-through from the reverse side or very light handwriting.

Handwritten text on a palm leaf fragment, likely in an ancient script such as Tamil or Grantha. The text is arranged in several lines across the length of the leaf.

Handwritten text on a palm leaf fragment, likely in an ancient script such as Tamil or Grantha. The text is arranged in several lines across the length of the leaf. The script is densely packed and follows the natural curve of the leaf.

Handwritten Burmese script on a palm leaf, likely containing a historical or administrative record.

Handwritten Burmese script on a palm leaf, likely containing a historical or administrative record.

PERPUSTAKAAN NASIONAL RI

NB 2916

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely Burmese, inscribed on a long, narrow strip of material. The text is arranged in a single line across the width of the strip. The characters are small and closely spaced, typical of traditional manuscript writing. The strip appears to be made of a natural material like wood or bamboo, showing some texture and slight discoloration.

Handwritten Burmese script on a palm leaf, likely a historical record or legal document. The text is densely packed and spans the length of the leaf.

Handwritten Burmese script on a palm leaf, continuing the text from the top leaf. The script is consistent in style and appears to be a continuation of the same document.

Handwritten text on a palm leaf strip, likely a continuation from the previous page. The script is in an ancient Southeast Asian language, possibly Khmer or Thai, and is written in a cursive style. The leaf shows signs of age and wear, with some discoloration and a small tear near the right edge.

Handwritten text on a palm leaf strip, likely a continuation from the previous page. The script is in an ancient Southeast Asian language, possibly Khmer or Thai, and is written in a cursive style. The leaf shows signs of age and wear, with some discoloration and a small hole near the left edge.

Handwritten text in Khmer script on a palm leaf, likely a historical document or manuscript.

Handwritten text in Khmer script on a palm leaf, likely a historical document or manuscript.

Handwritten Burmese script on a palm leaf, likely a historical record or legal document. The text is densely packed and spans the length of the leaf.

Handwritten Burmese script on a palm leaf, continuing the text from the upper leaf. The script is consistent in style and appears to be a continuation of the same document.

Handwritten Burmese script on a palm leaf, likely a historical record or legal document. The text is densely packed and spans the length of the leaf.

Handwritten Burmese script on a palm leaf, continuing the text from the upper leaf. The script is consistent in style and appears to be a continuation of the same document.

Handwritten text in an ancient script, likely Burmese, on a palm leaf. The text is arranged in a single line across the length of the leaf. The characters are finely etched and appear to be in a historical form of the script.

Handwritten text in an ancient script, likely Burmese, on a palm leaf. This section contains two lines of text, with the second line starting with a small circular mark on the left edge. The script is consistent with the one on the upper leaf.

Handwritten text in an ancient script, likely Pāli, on a palm leaf. The text is arranged in approximately 12 horizontal lines. The script is finely etched into the surface of the leaf, which shows signs of age and wear. The background is dark, making the light-colored leaf stand out.

Handwritten text in an ancient script, likely Pāli, on a palm leaf. This leaf is shorter than the one above and features a small circular hole at the left end. The text is arranged in approximately 4 horizontal lines. The script is finely etched into the surface of the leaf, which shows signs of age and wear. The background is dark, making the light-colored leaf stand out.

7A522P LINE

Handwritten text in an ancient script, likely Balinese or Javanese, covering the length of the palm leaf. The text is arranged in several horizontal lines.

Tanggal	: 20 Juli 2011
Item ID	: 000034790
NO. Invent	: 2022012030
RIS-ID	: 0010-07220
Serial Number	: MUSTARA M /

1000

Handwritten text in an ancient script, possibly Pāli or Sanskrit, inscribed on a palm leaf. The text is arranged in several lines across the length of the leaf.

