Handwritten text in an old script, likely a form of Malay or Indonesian. The text is arranged in approximately 30 horizontal lines. The characters are dense and somewhat faded, characteristic of an antique manuscript. The script appears to be a historical form of the Malay alphabet, possibly using a different set of characters or a specific dialect. The text is written in a cursive style with some variations in line spacing. A large, stylized watermark or stamp is visible in the lower center of the page, partially overlapping the text. The watermark features a central emblem surrounded by decorative elements, though the details are difficult to discern due to the image quality and the script's complexity.

Handwritten text in a historical script, possibly Balinese, covering the majority of the page.
